SOUTHBRIDGE HIGH SCHOOL

SOUTHBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS

FOREWORD

Our class has chosen Tetra Anni Historiae as the theme of the 1965 yearbook. This is less a diary of our high school years than it is an account of desires fulfilled and actions anticipated. This period through which we are now passing will have a far greater effect on our lives than is possible for us to evaluate at this time. If we have made the most of our high school experience, if we have participated in school affairs, if we have absorbed at least some of the knowledge offered to us, if we have learned how to think, we will certainly, one day, learn to use what we have acquired here.

HISTORIAE

1961 — 1965

This is the record of a class now nearly completing its four years at Southbridge High School. Changes have taken place in the class and in the nation. New faces have made their impact felt on class affairs, and old friends have moved away leaving a feeling of loss at their departure. Nationally, these years witnessed the election of Lyndon Baines Johnson and the still unbelievable assassination of John Fitzgerald Kennedy. They witnessed the death of the "Man of the Century," Winston Churchill.

The Class of 1965 is more aware than we are often willing to admit of the opportunities which have been offered to us. The townspeople voted for and built the modern new building we now occupy. Because of this, our horizons have been broadened; some of us will follow new dreams formerly not considered. We are now exposed to much more language training and physical education. Our music department has also been amplified.

The knowledge, the teaching ability, and the very personality of the faculty will have a far reaching effect upon this class. Many of us will go on to attend colleges and technical schools. Our teachers have worked diligently to help us develop our natural talents; they struggled through those areas in which we have no native talent. We are a group of individuals with no desire to have our individualism squelched. To appeal to a group of this sort, to make classwork stimulating to those highly motivated and yet not too difficult to those who are not, is the challenge our teachers accepted when they chose to teach in a public high school. Just how successful they have been is an open question, eternal and imponderable.

If we are to be completely honest, many of us will have to confess that we have not used these four years to the fullest advantage. Older people say wasted time is the folly of youth. If they knew then what they know now, they too, might have profited from their opportunities. We are not different. As they did, we too, will have "to rise on stepping stones of our former selves to higher things." But in another sense, next June sixth, graduation day, will be a day of rebirth for us. For some, it will mark the exit of formal education and the entrance into the business world. For others, it will inaugurate a time of military service to our country. For the remainder, graduation day will merely mark a step into the long corridor of higher education. Whatever the path we tread, these four years must have an important bearing upon what will follow. Periodically, we have stopped the merry-go-round of everyday life to take a good look at the brass ring. Our guidance department, in recognizing the difference between brass plate and solid brass, has contributed. Our report cards have made us take a sharp look at ourselves. These opportunities of meditation have helped. We are grateful for them.

Tetra Anni Historiae will soon be part of our heritage. May they become a promise of a future self-fulfillment and self-acceptance.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF SERVICE

MRS. EVA CASAVANT

Yours was the greatest gift of all, Mrs. Eva Casavant, for together with history, problems of democracy, global geography, and economics, you taught us "to thine own self be true." Let it be said that you are a severe teacher, but let it never be said that any of us thought we could get away with doing our work half-heartedly, or shirking our responsibility in your classes. We acknowledge a debt of gratitude to a teacher who has helped us discipline ourselves.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF SERVICE

MR. RAYMOND BENOIT

Though you are leaving our halls, Mr. Raymond Benoit, Southbridge High School will always remember your wise leadership and dedicated service. Throughout the years that you have served as the director of the Cole Trade Department, you have earned yourself a place of respect and admiration in the hearts of both student and faculty. As you embark upon a new life of well deserved rest, we acknowledge with sincere gratitude and fondest best wishes a truly devoted administrator and friend.

MR. DONALD MARINO

MRS. JACQUELINE GAUTHIER

MR. WILLIAM PAUL

DEDICATION

Each class must have its advisors, those helpful, patient, kind faculty members whose task it is to guide us through a successful culmination of our high school years. Our advisors have been Mrs. Jacqueline Gauthier, Mr. Donald Marino. and Mr. William Paul. To them, we offer the pages of this book — a mirror of our growth and maturity. In grateful thanks, we, the Class of 1965, dedicate the Musket to them.

FACULTY

"I had eight birds hatch'd in the nest,
Four cocks there were, and hens the rest;
I nurst them up with pain and care,
Nor cost nor labor did I spare,
Till at the last they felt their wing,
Mounted the trees and learned to sing."

ADMINISTRATION

MR. EDWARD DESROCHES, Principal

MRS. NORA ADAMS, Secretary to the Principal

MR. EUGENE REMIAN, Vice-Principal

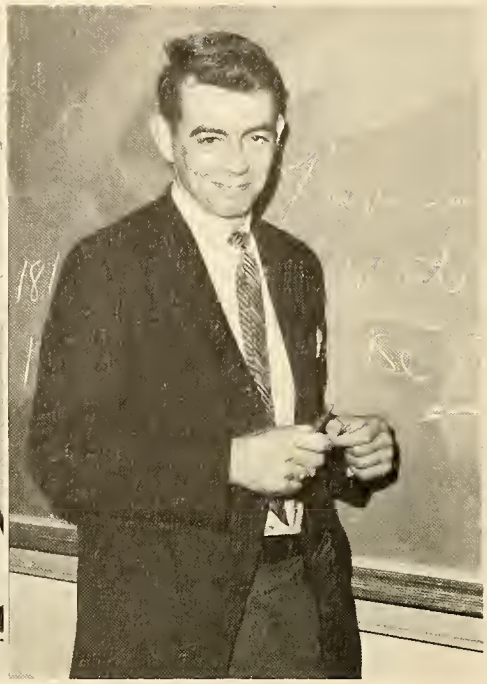
MR. ROBERT L. FOX, Superintendent of Schools

MR. RAYMOND BENOIT, Director of Cole Trade Division

DR. LEWIS KYRIOS, Guidance Director

MRS. KATHRYN BEAUREGARD, Guidance Counselor

JANET BAKER, pretty as a Shakesperean maiden, has given her charm and personality to make English like it has never been before.



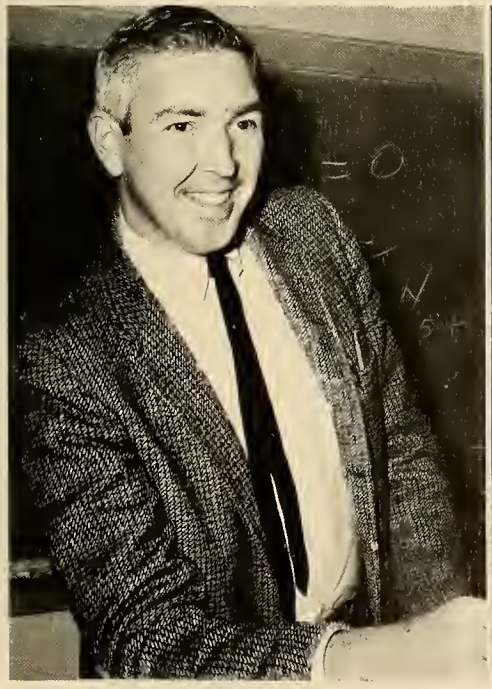
CARROLL BRITCH, with his pixie like charm and his own intangible accent has given us the best senior play to have ever graced our hallowed stage.

ARNOLD REPUCCI has given our class and our school a beautiful world of music and a wealth of recognition.

ROSE PROULX has broadened our horizons. To the misty shores of France, to the left bank of Paris we have journeyed and treasured each step.

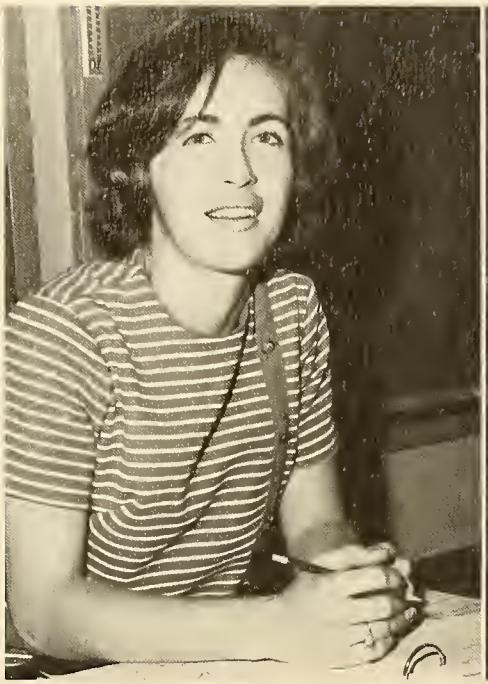
EUGENE SAVAGE introduces the freshmen to high school English and literature. We hope he will be here many more years to start newcomers off right.

CONSTANCE CODERRE'S ready smile for the students in her typing class will always be a cherished memory.



Tall, strong RALPH SENNOTT will always remind his commercial students and all of us that there is something special about teachers.

ROLAND VARIN reveals the interesting lessons that can be gained from the past and has given us a greater understanding of current events.



To JUDITH TRUDELL we wish the very best. We graduate with the longing that she might have come sooner to help us unravel the mysteries of science.

An English teacher at Cole Trade, CHARLES LATINO is always ready to give his help.

WALTER GLONDEK teaches drafting at Cole Trade. His fine instruction is a valuable asset to our future engineers.

MICHAEL VESHIA, our ambitious new librarian has opened wide the door of learning to be found in books. For his kind instruction in the use of the library, we are truly grateful.

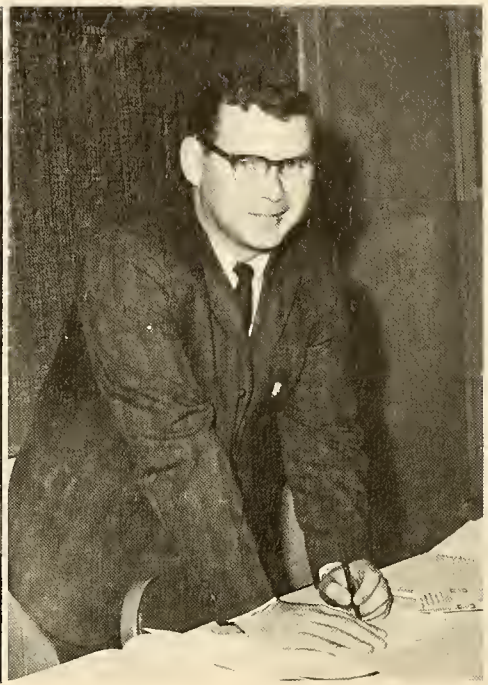
ROBERT YOUNG, head of the science department, has broadened the scope of many future scientists. We have all found him dedicated to his profession and to us.

CLAIRE BIRTZ has given her students a varied background in the field of art.

PERSIS HOWE, head of the commercial department, has instilled in us a firm grasp of business life, and a high regard for scholarship and character.

FRANK SKINYON, assistant director at Cole Trade, enjoys his work as science and mathematics teacher. Any person who truly likes his occupation, as does Mr. Skinyon, makes his work more interesting to those about him.

Thanks to JOHN CONLON, we will remember many gay and happy times, as well as some trying ones in geometry class.

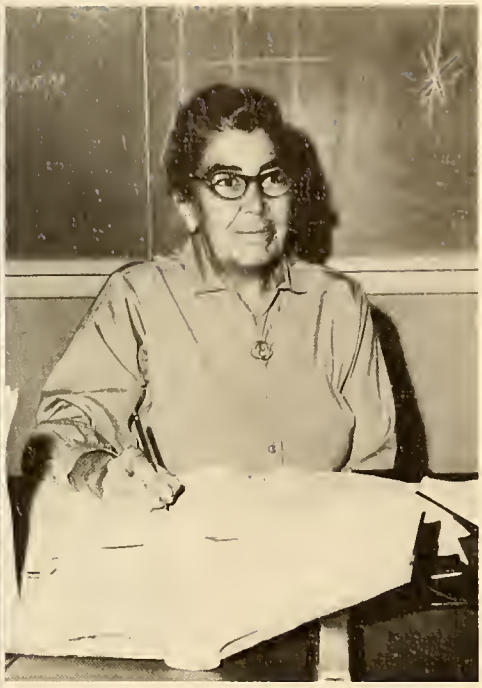


We are proud of the wonderful things that have come out of our woodworking shop. GREGORY SULLIVAN is the teacher responsible for this.

In EUGENE TALBOT, biology teacher, we find not only a man well-trained in his field, but also an understanding friend.

Latin may be a dead language to many, but PAUL DiGRAZIA is doing his best to make us think otherwise.

HELEN EMRICH is the happy, graceful lady who faces us two periods a week and helps the girls develop agility and poise.



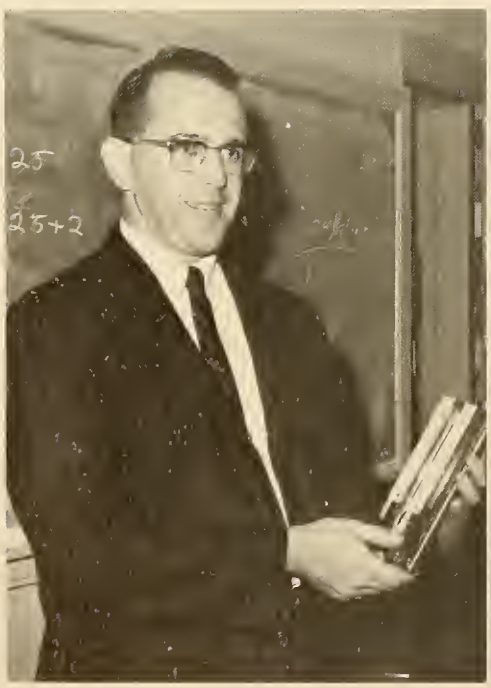
THECLA FITZGERALD, as head of the English department, stands on a pedestal because of her interest and deep understanding of our problems.

JOSEPH C. JORDAN, head of the mathematics department, has helped us most by bringing the practical uses of math to our attention. Mr. Jordan will be remembered as a friend.

We have found our past to be as important a part of our life as our present and our future. We owe much of this discovery to JAMES FORKEY.

DAVID KNIGHT, instructor in the cabinet shop at Cole Trade, helps his boys prepare for a worthy and useful life ahead.

To BARBARA KYRIOS all girls are the homemakers of tomorrow. Thanks to her, they have a good foundation for this all-important job.



DONALD BERNARD teaches academically related subjects at Cole Trade. Friendly to all, he is liked by students of both divisions of Southbridge High School.

Although a new face this year, JAMES LAPIETRA'S smile is known to everyone. Our new Spanish teacher has made many friends.

Electricity may be a baffling science to some, but not to LUCIAN MANCHUK, electrical department instructor.

MELIA LeBOEUF, prepares us for the challenge of the business world. Many of our future secretaries and businessmen owe a great deal to Mrs. LeBoeuf.

RICHARD McGRAIL instructs his classes in grammar, public speaking, and literature. His understanding ways and pleasant manner make English a far more interesting and challenging subject.

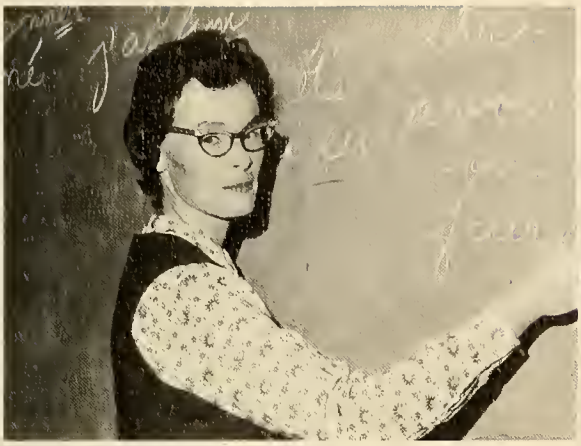
WILLIAM NICKERSON has spent many patient hours instructing male students in mechanical drawing. Besides this dedicated work, he teaches classes in global geography.

EVA CASAVANT heads the Social Studies department. Her Problems of Democracy class feel that this course, more than any other in high school, has prepared them to be good citizens.

NORMAN LEDUC opens worlds of wonder in science and mathematics. We owe a debt of gratitude to this fine person.

PAUL BERGERON introduces Cole Trade boys to Algebra and Physics. He feels a basic understanding of these subjects is necessary for his students.

Because of his friendly ways and understanding manner, FRANCIS POLASKI, instructor in the sheetmetal department, is a popular teacher at Cole Trade.

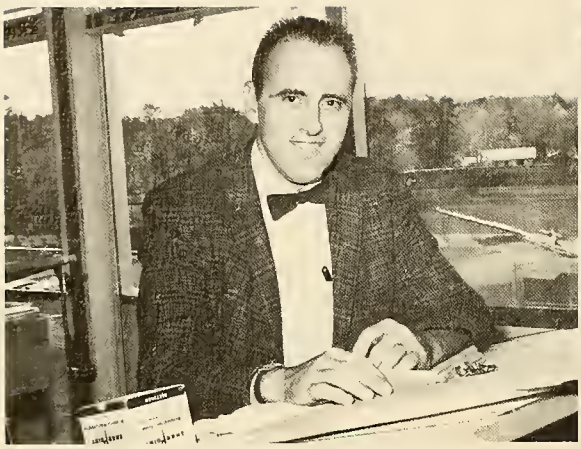


MEREDITH SULD has instilled in us not only a comprehension of French grammar, but also a deep appreciation of the culture of the French people.

WALTER GOSK is the global geography teacher. His interests are as wide and as varied as the world around us.

Although a graduate of our rival high school, ANTHONY CHLAPOWSKI has proven himself to be a good teacher and a good friend.

WILLIAM PAUL is machine shop instructor at our Trade School. His hard work and patient ways have been an asset to the school.



ARTHUR METRAS teaches drafting at Cole Trade. Because of his interest in sports, Mr. Metras is popular with his students.

EDWIN WASKIEWICZ teaches in the machine shop at Cole Trade. Seemingly stern to those who don't know him, his students think him a friendly person.

The boys' physical education teacher, DONALD MARINO, has provided them with incentive for physical fitness, and has acted as a good friend.

SENIORS

September 9, 1964 — Seniors at last!

This is to be our year, filled with a myriad of events, a mad whirl of activities, a merry-go-round which will finally grind to a halt next June. There are studies of course, for this is what we are really here for. Clubs must be reorganized, yearbook pictures taken, college boards accomplished, applications filed. The list is endless; the time marches on.

When graduation day arrives it is our fervent hope that all our work and activity will result in a feeling of "well done"; that our Tetra Anni Historiae will enable us to face the new frontiers of our future with greater knowledge, courage, and perception.

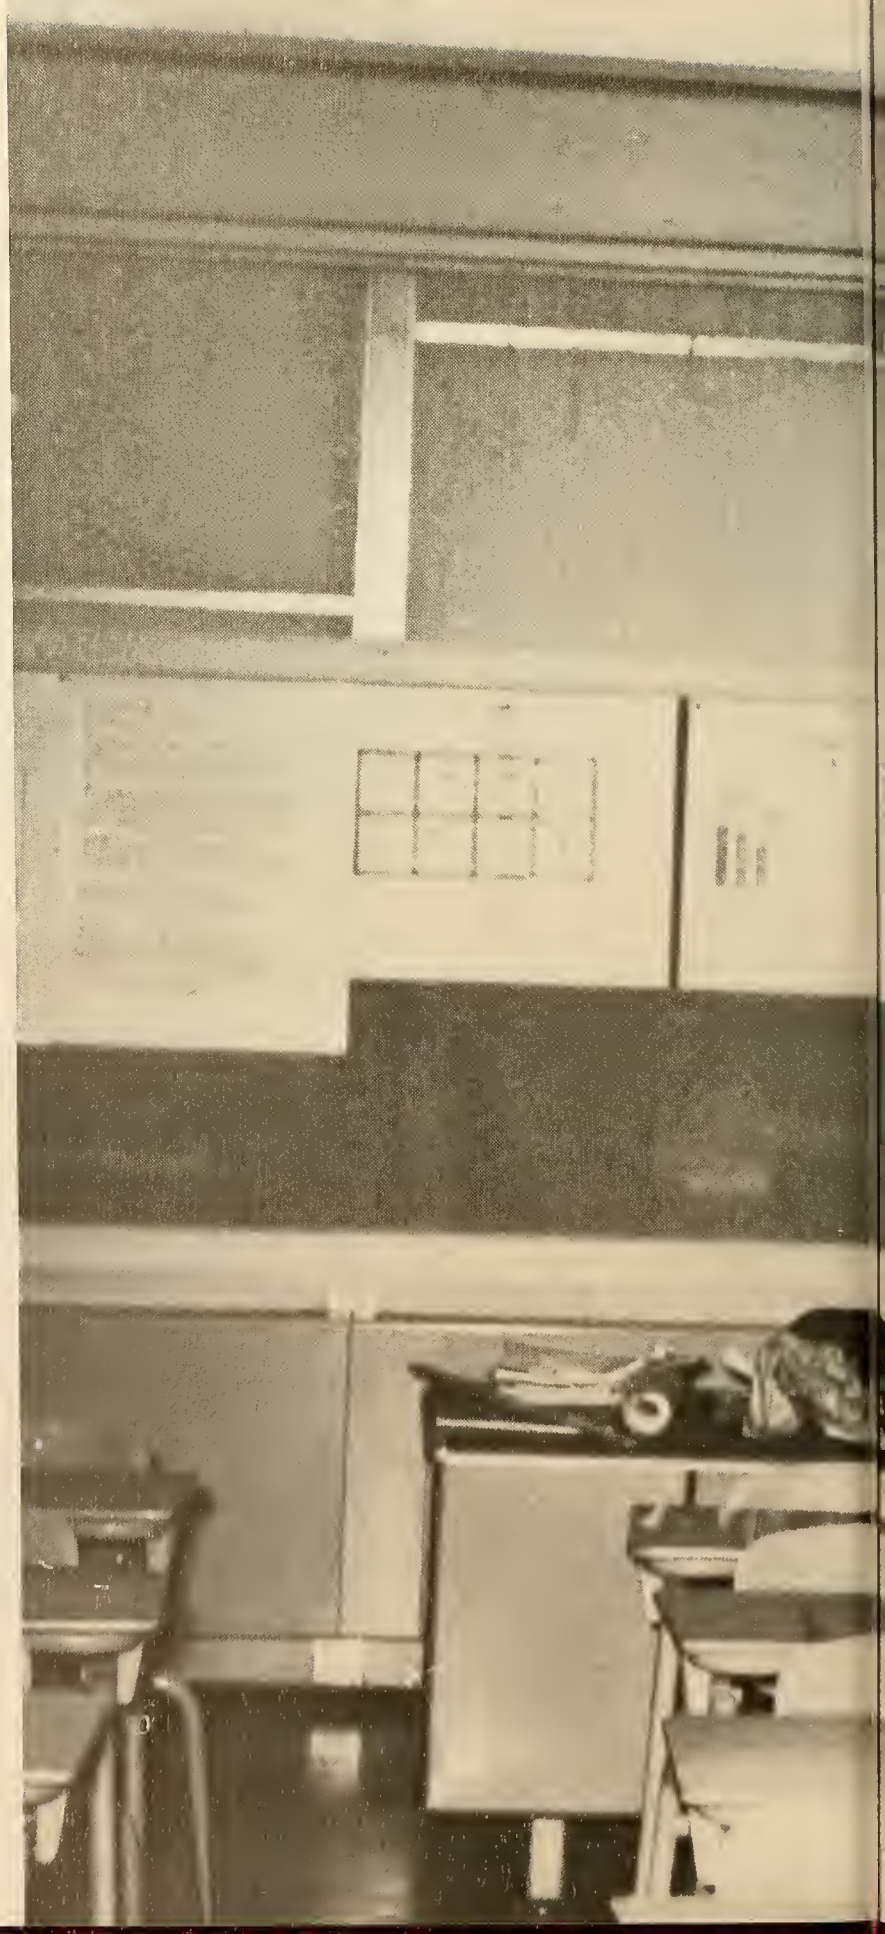
"The American Dream is never entirely realized. If many of our young people have lost the excitement of the early settlers who had a country to explore and develop, it is because no one remembers to tell them that the world has never been so challenging, so exciting; the fields of adventure and new fields to conquer have never been so limitless. There is still unfinished business at home, but there is the most tremendous adventure in bringing the peoples of the world to an understanding of the American Dream.

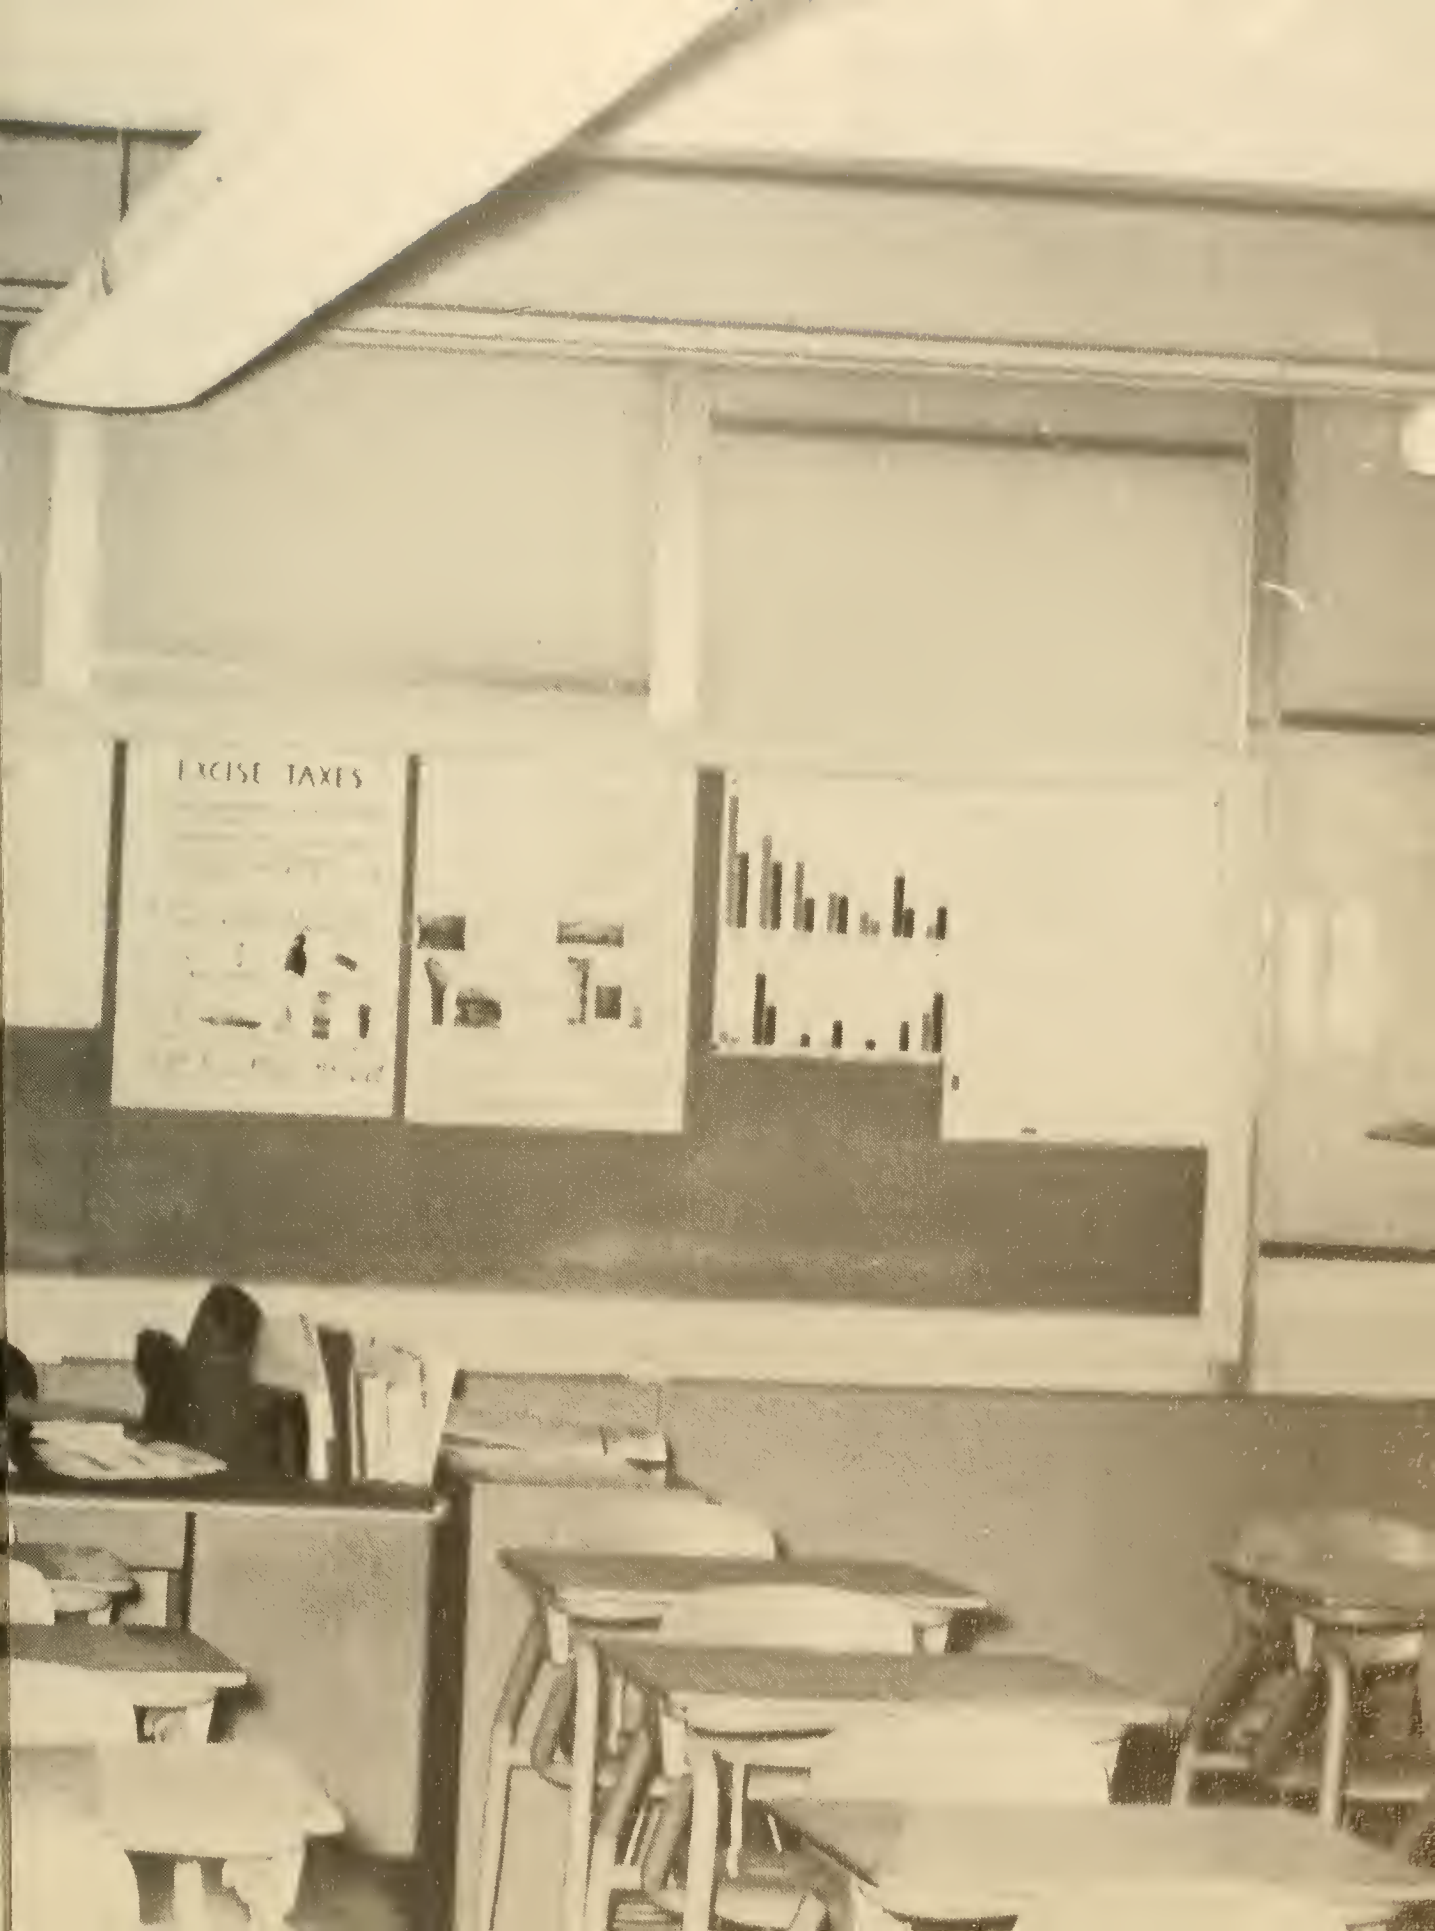
"I say to the young: 'Do not stop thinking of life as an adventure. You have no security unless you can live bravely, excitingly, imaginatively; unless you can choose a challenge instead of a competence."

Eleanor Roosevelet

HISTORIA

The history of our class is, in reality, a chronological accounting of our expectations, our aims, and our accomplishments, as individuals and as a group. There have been frustrations and hours of dejection, but there have also been moments of triumph. It has been a time of growing, of learning to live with one another, of appreciating the friendship and the abilities of one's peers. It is our hope that long years from now when we have occasion to glance again upon these pages, we will acknowledge the preponderancy these Tetra Anni Historiae will have had upon our lives.





EXCISE TAXES

NOSTER PRIMUS ANNUS

Although the awed, frightened teen-agers who entered the school on that first Wednesday after Labor Day were not yet united, they were fated to be joined together in one body, the Class of 1965. Many events throughout that freshman year served to acquaint us with one another and to bind us into a co-operative unit.

We first entered the social whirl at the Freshman Reception. We acknowledged our lowly position in the student body by kissing Senior rings. "Star" babies of the evening were Sandra Johnson, Melvin Glass, Donna Palmerino, and Ronald Cronin. It was a night of mock humiliation, but it was fun.

Our first year was marked by tragedy. Dr. James Robertson, our beloved Principal, passed away suddenly. It is our sincere hope that in our individual journeys through life, we will remember this man who welcomed us so heartily to high school life.

Our athletes began almost immediately to make their presence felt. Bob Blais, Chris Crosbie, Jim Jowett, Ted Mach, Paul Mani, Charles Nasse, Scott Phipps, Fran Proulx, Mitch Zachara, and Steve Zoto became members of the football team. Our basketball squad was strengthened by Paul Mani. The girls, too, distinguished themselves. Norma Bellerive, Nancy Gajewski, Paula Kopacz, Marion Orzech, Theresa Webber, Marilyn Christian, and Christine Bousquet worked diligently under Coach Harry McMahon's "Hustle-hustle" on the basketball court.

Paul Mani, and Barbara Tieri represented our class on the Student Council.

Our exchange concert that year was held with Mahar Regional High School from Orange, Mass. We were awed by the size and the quality of their band. We determined to put more effort into our music in order that we might more favorably compete in the future. Walter Rewinski, Jeanne Renaud, Paula Kopacz, Eugene Dani, Isabel Fogwill, Ronald Cronin, and Ramona Salvati were members of the band. Mixed Chorus members who participated in the concerts were: Melvin Glass, Michael Simon, Gail Willett, Marcia Hill, Ronald Blais, Steve Zoto, June Houle, James Jowett, and Diana Chace.

Some of us entered the Science Fair that year. Because of our freshman classification, we were limited to the General Science Division. Winners of the Junior Division were: First Prize, Paula Kopacz; Second Prize, James Houghton; and Third Prize, Melvin Glass.

The greatest event of the year, however, was the "Exodus" into Southbridge High School, the school we now call "home." In leaving Wells, our class took with it the worthy traditions of the school but did not intend to live in the past. Southbridge High had to build its own reputation, do its own good deeds, and learn by its own mistakes. As freshmen, we had the most powerful role in the development of our school, and we hope we have done justice to it.

NOSTER SECUNDUS ANNUS

No longer lowly freshmen, but far from being mighty seniors, members of the sophomore class felt like old veterans when school opened in the fall. We, the "high and might," looked on with glee as we saw the new freshman class undergoing the same tortures of initiation that we had experienced one year earlier.

Again in our sophomore year, the members of our class were active in sports. Charles Nasse, Paul Mani, Chris Crosbie, Fulvio Gentili, Steve Zoto, Kim Palmerino, Jim Jowett, Dick Thibeault, and Bruce Newlands worked hard for Coaches Marino, Santelli, and Montigny.

The next sport to be played was basketball. Paul Mani and Fulvio Gentili made the varsity squad, while Scott Phipps, Kim Palmerino, Ron Cronin, Steve Zoto, Justin DuPaul, and Peter Gaudette kept the junior varsity squad winning game after game.

The girls were not to be outdone in this business of victories. The girls, too, brought home their share of wins. Martena Shea, Paula Kopacz, Christine Bousquet, Sandra Martin, Norma Bellerive, Susan Damian, and Marion Orzech were members of the varsity team. The junior varsity team was backed by Elaine Mathieu, Marilyn Christian, Terry Webber, Nancy Gajewski, Rita Trifone, and Joan Latendress.

As we moved along the sports calendar, warm weather brought open windows, and bats and balls. Mr. Robert Young and Mr. Harold McAuliffe coached Peter Gaudette, Paul Mani, and Dick Thibeault as members of the baseball team.

A new system for Student Council membership was inaugurated that year. A careful screening of all candidates was held, and those meeting the basic requirements were allowed to run for Student Council first in the preliminaries, and then in the final contest. Six girls represented us that year. They were Norma Bellerive, Paula Kopacz, Carol Lapointe, Charlene Bourdelais, Christine Bousquet, and Judy Brodeur.

Fulvio Gentili, Kim Palmerino, Paul Mani, Steve Zoto, and Dick Thibeault were invited to become members of the "S" Club.

The Band experienced a drastic change in our sophomore year. With the advent of the new director, Mr. Arnold Reppucci, the band began to change its style as well as its music. Band members were Eugene Dani, Jeanne Renaud, Paula Kopacz, Walter Rewinski, Isabel Fogwill, Diana Chace, Ann Menard, and Ramona Salvati. Students in the Scarlet Troubadours were Ron Blais, Fran Proulx, Jim Jowett, Marilyn Travinski, Carol Lapointe, Charlene Bourdelais, Mary Jane Tucci, Judy Bates, and Elaine Mathieu. The exchange concert was held with the high school in Johnston, Rhode Island.

All in all, our sophomore year was spent in studying, in growing and maturing, and in getting to know our classmates better.

NOSTER TER

Finally we were upperclassmen, that magic word which separates the leaders of the school from the followers. Right from the beginning of the school year, the members of our class worked hard. On the football field, our athletes really began to shine and to show they were capable of leading the team next year. Charles Nasse, Scott Phipps, James Jowett, Steve Zoto, Richard Thibeault, Paul Mani, Kim Palmerino, Fulvio Gentili, Christopher Crosbie, and Jan Hmielowski contributed to a successful season.

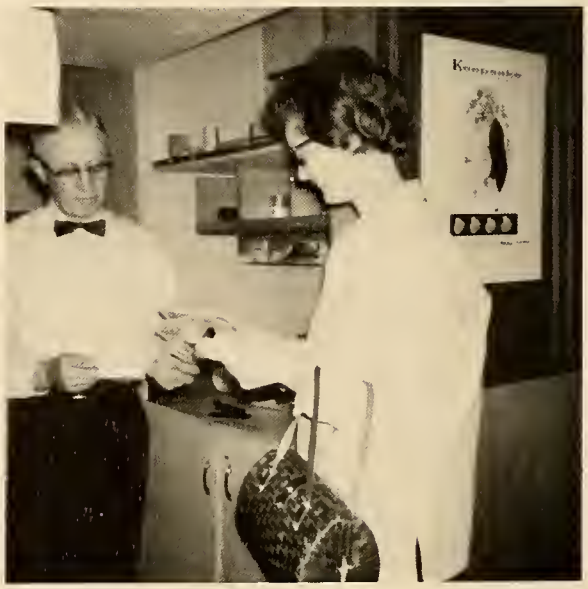
For the first time, we had members of our class on the cheering squad. Paula Kopacz and Donna Palmerino, together with substitutes Charlene Bourdelais and Elaine Karen Mathieu, sounded forth their yells to spirit the crowds.

When basketball season came around, the Junior Class was again ready and eager to be the iron support on the team. Justin Dupaul, Fulvio Gentili, Ted Mach, Paul Mani, and Scott Phipps saw a great deal of action on the hardwood floor.

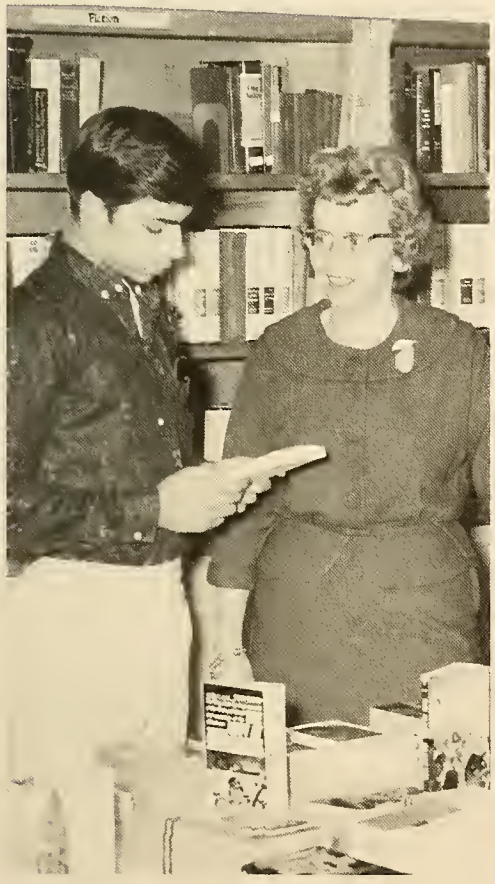
Meanwhile, the girls' basketball team was piling up its list of victories. Although they suffered a heartbreaking loss to the Bartlett team (35-34), the following girls worked hard to build a successful team: Christine Bousquet, Susan Damian, Nancy Gajewski, Sandra Martin, Elaine Kathleen Mathieu, Marion Orzech, Elizabeth Webber, Martena Shea, and Donna Palmerino.

Boys on the track team that year were Ronald Blais, Francis Proulx, Bruce Newlands, and John Marinelli.

Peter Gaudette, Ted Mach, and Paul Mani toiled under the coaching of Mr. Young on the baseball diamond. The girls' softball team was backed by Marilyn Travinski, Joan Latendress, Donna Palmerino, Leslie Martel, and Elaine Kathleen Mathieu.



TIUS ANUS



Our Junior year, nevertheless, was not spent solely in athletics. We also distinguished ourselves in other fields. In the musical department, the voices of Judy Bates, Norma Bellerive, Ronald Blais, Christine Bousquet, Diane Brault, Marilyn Christian, Melvin Glass, Elaine Kathleen Mathieu, Sandra Martin, Marjorie Matte, Karen Olson, Francis Proulx, Ronald Saletnik, Martena Shea, Marilyn Travinski, Mary Jane Tucci, and Beatrice Yanka, gave the Scarlet Troubadours a wonderful sound. Juniors in the band were Jeanne Renaud, Walter Resinski, Paula Kopacz, Ann Menard, Diana Chace, and Isabell Fogwill. The exchange concerts were held with Bennington (Vermont) High School. We made many lasting friendships with the Bennington students.

Our Junior year was important in that it was the first time that any members of our class were eligible for the National Honor Society. Inducted at the first ceremony that year were Maureen Earls, Paula Kopacz, Susan Damian, Bernice Berard, Ronald Frigon, Phyllis Gardner, Michael Smolen, and Fulvio Gentili.

Class representatives to the Student Council were Norma Bellerive, Charlene Bourdelais, Christine Bousquet, Diane Brault, Carol Lapointe, and Richard Thibeault (Vice-President).

Happiness is a Junior Class Ring — or so we thought the day we formed that long line in the jewelry store waiting to receive them. Certainly it was an event we will long treasure.

Hard work and long hours of practice resulted in a class play of which we were proud. The name of the three act play was Rest Assured.

The climax to our fabulous Junior Year was the Prom. "Arrivederci Roma" in pink, orchid, and blue, was a dream come true. Paula Kopacz was General Chairman of the big event, and Frances Bachand was Decorating Chairman.

Can it be true? Finally we are Seniors! Our Senior year has been a whirlwind of activity right from the start. We began by sponsoring the Freshman Reception on the Friday after school opened.

Perhaps the most significant function of Seniors is their leadership of the student body. Our class is no exception. We are, for the most part, the officers of clubs and the captains of teams.

The foothall team was an outstanding one. Victory after victory brought us to the Bartlett classic undefeated. On the cold, rainy Thanksgiving Day, we beat the Indians by a score of 6-0. An undefeated season made the Victory Dance an exuberant one. The dance was bittersweet, though, because many of our boys had finished their last football game. Tri-Captains Paul Mani, Fulvio Gentili, and Chris Crosbie had to turn over the reins to a younger group of boys.

The basketball team worked hard all season. A post-season tournament was begun this year. The Southbridge High Pioneers brought home a second place trophy from this Tri-Area Tournament. For one of our classmates, the final game of the tournament was one that will never be forgotten. Paul Mani scored his one thousandth point in the last few minutes of the game. The team was captained by Fulvio Gentili and Paul Mani.

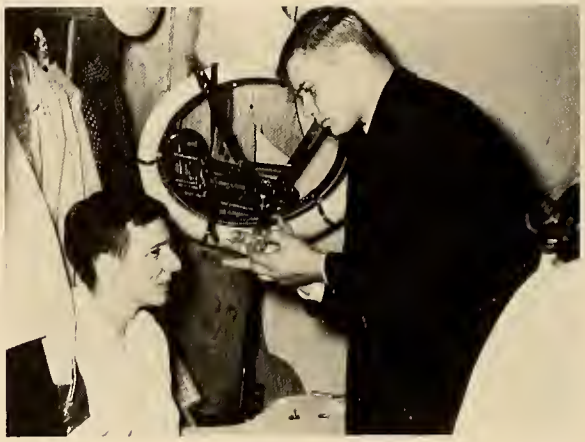
The cheerleaders, too, left no stone unturned. Co-captains Paul Kopacz and Donna Palmerino led the squad on to a fifth place win at the 18th Annual David Prouty Cheerleaders Tournament, and encouraged the squad to enter the Western New England Cheerleaders Tournament for the first time in the school's history.

Our Senior Play was a success. Directed by Mr. Britch, The Curious Savage drew a large audience.

A different type of trip was undertaken by the music department this year. The Band and the Scarlet Troubadours travelled to the New York World's Fair on May 7, to perform at the New York Pavillion.

Representing our class on the Student Council were Carol Lapointe (President), Diane Brault (Vice President), Michael Smolen, Stanley Labuda, Norma Belleriv, and Charlene Bourdelais.

The girls basketball team distinguished itself in a highly successful season. They brought home a fourth place trophy from the Sutton Tournament.



TUS ANNUS

On April 9, many Seniors participated in a gym show sponsored by the physical education department. this was the third show of its kind to be held at Southbridge High.

Although our class banquet, class night, and class trip are yet to pass, we look forward to them as great experiences we will never forget.

Graduation Day, June 6, 1965, is fast approaching. We await its coming with happiness and sadness: happiness — because of a goal that is being reached; and sadness — because we will be leaving our classmates, our many friends who have grown up with us over the past four years. A chapter in our biography is ending, and we realize we must leave this school we have grown to love. and we must leave our teachers who have helped us mature as they have helped us to learn.

And now, with graduation fast approaching,
And achievement close at hand,
We're proud to say that 65's
The best class in the land.

This season we won a lucky seven games. If we lost some games, we didn't lose our pride. The Titan 95-87 battle with St. Mary's and the 68-65 Olympian battle with Bartlett gave us a legacy of pride to invest in and collect from next year.

SHS received the second place trophy in the 1st annual Tri-Area Tournament.

Congratulations to Paul Mani who scored 1000 points in his high school career.

ACTIVITIES

"All work and no play . . ." No one in his right mind could make that statement about the students at Southbridge High School. Long into the cold winter nights, the Yearbook Staff was seen and heard grinding out pages for the 1965 Musket.

Day after day the Cheerleaders cheered, the Troubadors sang, the Math Team multiplied, the Student Council counciled, and the Honor Society maintained high standards of honor. Could any little red schoolhouse be more colorfully active?

This group sports a laudable combination of outstanding athletic ability and genuine enthusiasm for competitive sports. A major project of this organization is the sponsoring of the annual Sock Hops which follow the evening basketball games.

Their exclusive meetings, held in the boys' locker room, are the scenes of animated discussions, of skilled tactics, of good sportsmanship, and of zealous school spirit. These boys certainly set the pace for the sport enthusiasm here at S.H.S.

MATH TEAM

Captain: Michael Smolen
Secretary: Paula Kopacz

The Math Team has worked hard this year. Their efforts have been rewarded by a high standing for S.H.S. on the Mathematics League rostrum and by the realization that the study of math can be fun-filled as well as informative.

Although many of the team members will be lost by graduation, we all sincerely hope that other students interested in math will join the team and hold aloft the torch that S.H.S. carries as the leader in math organizations in our community and surrounding towns.

STUDENT COUNCIL

President: Carol Lapointe
Vice-President: Diane Brault
Secretary: Celine Poirier
Treasurer: Paul Rapo
Parliamentarian: Charles Szumilas

The Student Council has been an enthusiastic group this year. One of the most ambitious projects undertaken was the raising of enough money to bring a foreign student here to study. This was certainly a commendable project — one which will be of benefit both to the foreign student and to his new friends.

FOR OUR SCRAPBOOK OF MEMORIES

Certain events in our high school years have been entirely new and thrilling experiences. Our Junior Prom, the Freshmen Reception, the Victory Dance, the Christmas Concert — these are a few of those occasions we will cherish forever in our scraphook of memories.

The Grand March led by Class Officers of the Class of '64.

The Grand March nears its end.

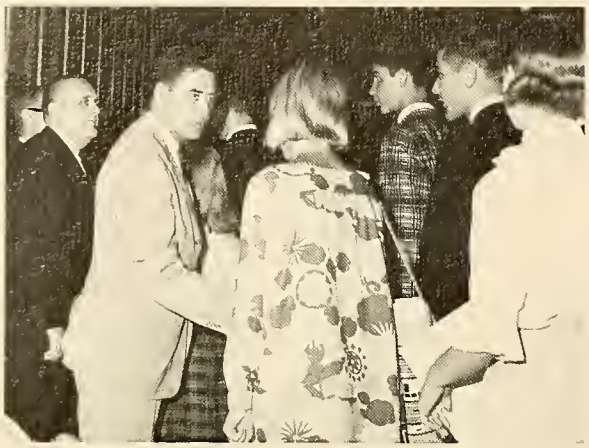
A wonderful night to be in love. Mark Caderet thought Sandy Martin looked beautiful.

IOR PROM

The Class of 65 would like to thank our many friends who were chaperons on that memorable May 29, 1964.

A couple is greeted by Mrs. Gauthier, Paul Mani, and Donna Palmerino.

Class of '64 says "good-bye" to friends and faculty.



Mr. Desroches welcomes new freshmen to S.H.S.

The incoming freshmen, led by the Seniors, meet the faculty.

Mary Jane Tucci feeds nourishing greenbeans to a humble freshman.

Awe-struck freshmen listen intently to words of erudite senior.

RECEPTION

New freshmen display latent talents at request of seniors.

Ron Cronin heard those eternal words for days afterwards: "Hail mighty senior . . ."

Waiting to meet the faculty, freshmen find comfort in the words of confident seniors.

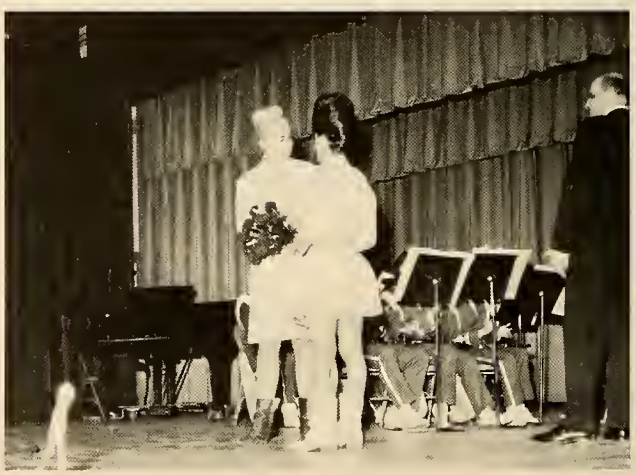
Elaine Mathieu seems to have captivated these freshmen, while other seniors watch amused.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT



VICTORY DANCE

THE CLASS WILL

We, the Class of 1965, in humble recognition of our faculty, bequeath the following to our posterity:

To Mr. Desroches, in addition to our eternal gratitude, a gold-plated net to retrieve his golf balls from the pond.

To Mr. Remian, a red carpet for the entrance to his office.

To our class advisors, in addition to our sincere appreciation, we leave;

To Mr. Marino, one Johnny Unitas, two Paul Hornings, and a Jimmy Brown:

To Mr. Paul, a new tape for measuring prom streamers.

Miss Fitzgerald is to be the deserving recipient of a collection of Shakespearean records by Richard Burton. (With ad libs by Elizabeth Taylor.)

To Mr. Forkey, we leave a set of Encyclopedia Britannica.

To Mr. Jordan, we leave confusion.

To Mr. Young, we leave a plea to please stop smelling up the corridors with his chemistry experiments!

We leave Mr. Conlon to his little conferences in the upstairs corridor.

To Mrs. Casavant, we leave our problems . . . Problems of Democracy, that is.

The members make the following bequests:

William Anger's hyena laugh to echo in C.T.H.S.

CLASS PROPHECY

PROPHECY OF THE CLASS OF 1965

We, the Prophecy Committee of the Class of 1965, to solve the nearly insurmountable problem of writing a prophecy, put our heads together and borrowed a few odds and ends from Mr. Young's laboratory. We built our own time machine. As soon as it warmed up, information began spilling onto the floor. The setting is Times Square in New York, and the year is 2000, the dawn of the twenty-first century!

Happy New Year! Wild enthusiasm issues from the myriad people crammed together to proclaim a new century.

Bruce Newlands, the recently elected Governor of New York, officiates at the ceremonies while his accountants, Edward Palmerino and Robert Gagnon, and his official aide, Jon Nicoll, create good will by holding a press conference. Near the stage is Martena Shea, star reporter for the Herald, managed by Jeremy Slack. Rival reporters from the Times, Walter Rewinski and Ronald Saletnik, are striving to get their paper off the press earlier under instructions from Lonnie Ugalde, their editor. The presses will roll as soon as photographer Ernest LaCroix returns with the pictures.

Kenneth Lesniewski, Charles Nasse, and Stanley Labuda, agents working for the United States Government, are competently controlling the huge crowd of milling people.

New York is fortunate to have expert nurses on hand incase of any emergency, namely Donna DiFederico and Isabell Fogwill. Our eye is caught by their Red Cross first aid station. Suzanne Arsenault and Judy Bates are busily mending scraped knees and elbows sustained by school children who are being guided by their teachers, Phyllis Gardner and Jeanne Fitzgibbons. Patrice Dubreuil, a history teacher, is accompanying her schoolmate teachers.

It seems as though the twenty-first century is going to be challenging, especially since this is the twentieth anniversary of Roger Mandeville's unique journey to the moon. Now, twenty years later, Richard Nawrot and Steve Zoto, the best civil engineers of the United States, are planning to erect an entire community on the moon! Naturally, Norman Powers, the dedicated mathematician and physicist, will be a leading member of the expedition. Also accompanying them will be Joan Latendress, the brilliant research worker whose outstanding accomplishments in the field of cancer have earned her the Nobel Prize in Medicine.

Two of the passengers on the flight will be Roland Rondeau and Ronald McGlinchey who were elected to carry a set of Hydes' knives to the moon.

Conspicuous in Times Square crowd is Geoffrey Phipps, the culinary genius of America, who, it is rumored, is one his way to Europe to compete for the title of "The World's Greatest Chef."

Speaking of Europe reminds us that among the many travelers of that "Golden Continent" present tonight are Bernard Leduc and Darryl Lulli, well-known members of the Jet Set.

The first person embarking from a newly arrived jet is the pretty airline stewardess, Maureen Earls, followed by Nancy Gajewski and Georgia Tien, Professors of Biology. Ronald Frigon, the research chemist, also known for his musical talents, greets them.

Among the many luminaries in the crowd are Broadway's famous stage and screen stars, Francis Proulx, Mary Jane Tucci, and Barbara Tieri. Accompanying them is the high-salaried commercial artist, Charles Puccelli.

To celebrate the new century, special entertainment is planned. First in an outstanding exhibition by the star gold medal winner of the Women's Olympic team, Christine Bousquet, Physical Therapist, followed by Carol Salisbury, a top diplomat from the American Embassy in England. Beatrice Yanka, straight from the Metropolitan Opera House, sings a beautiful, but difficult, aria.

After intermission, Judith Brodeur, author and illustrator of recent best-selling childrens' books, lectures to the assembled group. Rita Trifone discusses new methods of library administration, for she is head librarian at the Library of Congress. Shirley Trahan, head of her own dance studio, performs next with her company. At the insistence of the crowd, Marilyn Travinski, first woman Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, is willing to give a short speech. The finale is an address by the queen of the stage, Diane Brault.

The high point of the evening is the arrival of the Satellite for Interplanetary Living. When it passes over, it shoots out a rocket containing four of its crew members:

Alexandros Kames, Stanley Misiaszek, John LeFleur, and Martin Champagne. These men have worked long hours in order to perfect the project. Stanley Petrelli and Paul Belanger are remaining in the satellite in order to control its eastward journey across the Atlantic Ocean. These fine young men have been whipped into shape by Jan Hmielowski, the Chief Head of Aircraft at the Pentagon. A humorous note to such a huge undertaking are the initials P.B. which Paul Brunell mischievously inscribed on the satellite.

As you know, the International Science Committee is planning to build a revolutionary defense missile to protect earth in case of attacks from outside our solar system. The project is top secret and only the names of the men involved (whose whereabouts at the present time are unknown) have been released. They are John DiGregorio, Richard Hill, Michael Boucher, Douglas Broga, and Donald LePage.

It is rumored, although not yet confirmed, that William Broughton is the army scientist who heads the project. He has, however, failed to make any official comments. Unofficially he seems to be enjoying the festivities, especially his conversation with John Coughlin and Ronald Cronin, two successful comedians of the T.V. media who are with David Materas, Robert Ouellette, and David Bernard of the "What's My Line" panel show.

People seem to be coming in pairs: Linda Faxon and Nancy Frederick, hairdressers to the First Lady; Peter Szlosek and Daniel Butler, two of the best United States Forest Rangers; and Peter Gaudette, newest member of the Red Sox and James Steele, the brilliant new coach of S.H.S.

Among the numerous national societies holding meetings in New York are the National Hairdressers Society headed by Virginia Merry; the U.S. Secretaries Association represented by Gail Matte, Linda Montigny, and Ann Menard; and the Nurses' Association of America represented by Elaine Karen Mathieu, Susan Moska, Sharon Mongeon, and Marion Orzech.

Speaking to the Nurses' Association is John Marinelli, the world-renowned specialist of heart transplants, accompanied by his outstanding medical assistant, Elaine Kathleen Mathieu.

On a stage erected late last night in the east corner of Times Square Ralph Racicot and Kim Palmerino, the two new explosive talents in the field of law, are being interviewed for their work in the famous "Gonzalez Case." Their personal secretaries, Jean Nordman, Louise Mominee, Leslie Martel, and Joanne Nabozny, accompany them. No doubt these perfectionists greatly aided in solving the case.

It is widely rumored that Marjorie Matte, new best-seller authoress, will fly here tonight, served by the Airline Hostess of the Year, Sandra Martin.

Demonstrations of the IBM machines of the twenty-first century are being conducted by Elaine Pepin, Paulette McCann, and Sharon Jalbert. Pharmacist Ted Mach is explaining advances in the fields of drugs and medicines. Teaching techniques, likewise, are expertly being outlined by Virginia Michon, Karen Olson, and Jean Recore. The office of tomorrow is described in detail by Patricia Latour.

Next our cameras swing over to the south corner to see the brilliant fireworks set up by Richard Duhamel, George Girard, and David Hebert. Bruce Hebert oversees the project with the aid of his able assistants, Jeanne Renaud and Peter Gaulin. In the light of this brilliant spectacle, we are able to zoom in on Susan Damian, head nurse at the center of Hope, who is trying to convince Sharon Daniels, a psychiatric nurse, and Diana Chace, an outstanding pediatric nurse, to join Hope.

Beside them, Ernest Roso, our State Representative, Paul Tremblay, our State Senator, and Monseigneur Brian Cormier discuss the recent passage of an anti-capital punishment bill in Congress.

Many distinguished companies from the entire country are represented by 1965 graduates. Joseph St. Pierre, head machinist at the American Optical, and foreman, Jeff Wrona and Ronald Mominee proudly represent their company. Antonio Tortis and David Rose, two employees from the Springfield Armory, hold their heads high, for mainly through their efforts the Springfield Armory was not closed in 1990.

Three successful Pratt and Whitney workers, Michael Mongeau, Dennis Osimo, and Richard Theriault, ride by in their cadillacs. Also conspicuous are Robert Courtemanche and Robert Gemme of The Wyman and Gordon Branch on the Moon. Tycoon Eugene Dani, manager of Dani and Soldani, Inc. is supposed to make an appearance in the south corner tonight.

While waiting many people eat at the K Eatery on Times Square, run by Anthony Kalwarezyk and Thomas Kruzewski. Raymond McDonald, Roland Lucier, and Michael Lavoie are some of K's better-known patrons.

Next door is Kenneth Kopas' car agency. Inside, William Anger, cabinetmaker for the Queen of England, and Richard Thibeault, his arch rival, are calmly discussing, of all things, cars!

Many of the surrounding buildings recall the Class of 1965. The hair-styling salon of Patricia Gracyalny and Lea Gregoire is flanked by the Interspace Travel Agency run by Michael Smolen, noted aeronautical engineer. Mark Benvenuti, astronomer, is flight consultant. If you are interested in tickets, consult Cecile LaRoche or Marie Bellerose, efficient secretaries.

Across the street is a used car lot operated by Mitchell Zachara and Robert Labarge. Under the supervision of Gary Stockdale, head mechanic, the cars are kept in fine condition.

Flanking the lot is Birney Smith's Band Studio. Farther down is the sign of Dr. Susan Larson, Dental Hygienist. The dress shop of Ramona Salvati is a pace-setter in female fashions. Among her employees are Roland Langevin, a corporation lawyer, and Linda Laflamme, an executive secretary. David Krasnov's extensive knowledge of business administration insures smooth sailing. As an added feature, Charlene Bourdelais, Diana Langlois, and Theresa Webber model the latest fashions.

Roaming among the crowd are James Jowett and Bruce Splaine, well-known bachelors, each with a season's debutante.

Many of the professors from the University of Massachusetts are present. Raymond White, professor of United States History, and Melvin Glass, biological researcher, are enjoying the evening. James Houghton, practicing veterinarian from Vermont, has suddenly been called away in his model "A" Ford to attend a convention in Dearborn, Michigan. June Houle, inventor of revolutionary and highly successful techniques in kindergarten teaching, is with Linda Healy, also an expert pre-schooler teacher. Marcia Hill, home economics expert. Lucille Hetu, of the Secretarial Department, and Bernice Berard, hookkeeping teacher, also represent the University. Paula Kopacz, head of the foreign language department is with the well-known teachers Frances Bachand and Norma Bellerive.

Diane Rossi, private secretary to the American Optical president, James Iozzo, and her assistants, Jane Jankowski, Angela Battista, and Kathleen Berthiaume, heartly welcome Fulvio Gentili, a lawyer, and his legal secretary, Carol Lapointe, to the celebration.

Representing the sports world are the championship howlers Michael Simon and John Soldani, as well as David Utakis, recent winner of the P.G.A. Golf Championship, and Ronald Hetu, who has recently been named pro at Cohasse Country Club.

It is reported that Donna Palmerino and Scott Phipps, both gold medal winners at the recent Olympics held in Antarctica, are going to make personal appearances in conjunction with Paul Mani and Justin Dupaul, contenders for the sidewalk-surfing championship of the world.

Most of the crowd is drifting toward the center of the square. There Ronald Chapdelaine and Arthur Savageau are putting on a basketball exposition. The most intent spectator is Chris Crosbie, the man who led the N.Y. Giants to their first N.F.L. Championship in twenty years.

Alex DaDalt and Gilman Tardiff, trained as biology teachers, listen to Paul Mailhot, a Cole Trade teacher, expound his views on Russia's celebration of the twenty-first century. David Vespucci, the world-wide traveler, just back from the uncharted waste of the Arctic, joins them with his fearless pilot, Edward Urbanowski.

Paul Zajac, president of the Electricians' Unions, is preparing for the grand finale of the fireworks.

Nathalie Beaudry, Paulette Brousseau, and Gail Willett, wave good-by to all their friends who are now leaving the celebration.

The Prophecy Committee regrets that on Mr. Young's orders we had to dismantle our time machine and put back the odds and ends we borrowed. We wish that it could have been passed on to the Class of 1966, but . . . Let them make their own time machine.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Throughout our four years in high school, we have turned time after time to these — our merchants, our parents, and our friends, to help us in time of crisis. We needed chairs for our Junior Prom and we requested them from a merchant. We held a food sale. Where? In a local store. The savings bonds given as science fair prizes are the gift of a manufacturing concern. Scholarships, honor nights — these are the gifts of service clubs. Southbridge is a generous town. We, the Class of 1965, are most grateful.

VALEDICTION

It may not be the prerogative of the editor of the yearbook to speak for the members of her class. However, I feel I am expressing the sentiments of all my classmates when I most heartily thank those who have made these four years possible for us.

In closing our yearbook, the mirror of our high school years, we must not overlook our parents — to whom we owe so much. You have sacrificed for us; you have fed and clothed us; you have answered our questions and solved our problems. You have been the dependable, ever-present confidant, or even the small voice of our conscience. You have played the most important part in our lives, and we would be derelict in our duty if we did not acknowledge the debt of gratitude we owe you. Thank you so much, Mom and Dad.
